“Debbie, I'm not sure if you'll get this message as it's 2 years past Duane's passing. I was thinking if you all this morning and looked up your last name on Facebook which then led me to do a google search and found Duane's obituary. We lost contact years back but I've talked about your friendship to others over the years. I know Duane suffered with the tumor and pain when we were living in Apex over 12 years ago. I'm sorry that his battle ended up continuing and for your loss. I pray you and the girls are doing well. Would love to have a chance to talk. My email is lesleyjbruns@gmail.com.

“Debbie: I just found out Dino passed away last June. It is New Years Eve 2017 and I'm deeply saddened at his passing. We served together on the Lewis & Clark. Dino was my technician and later helped me to get a job at GE. Both of you were so kind to let me stay with you while I got myself situated in Pittsfield.

I am at a loss for words and it pains me to see his picture and realize he is no longer with you and the girls. He was an excellent human being with an incredible sense of humor and patience. I always enjoyed his southern drawl and perpetual smile.

I am deeply sorry you and the girls have lost such a kind man.

“ I worked with Dwayne and knew him for over 10 years. During that time, I enjoyed his dry humor and witnessed his remarkable work ethic and strong faith in God and love for his family. Watching him struggle with serious health issues for the past several years was humbling for me and revealed a faith and strong character that is rare. In spite of the physical pain he experienced, I never once heard him complain or lose his sense of humor. He has been an example to me of what a Godly man looks like and I'll always be grateful to him for that. Well done Dwayne, well done!

“ Over the past few days, as the news spread, eulogies for Dwayne have been coming from all of the people at Oracle that he had worked with over the past 17 years. Just some of the key words from them that describe Dwayne were: a great mentor, dependable, patient, meticulous, always smiling and irreplaceable! Dwayne lived a successful life. First, he had a strong relationship with God. One of his best friends wrote, 'Dwayne was a believer in Jesus Christ, and today no longer experiences the pain he had to live with over the last several months of his earthly life. For this, I truly thank God.' Dwayne's family and friends were the next most important to him as evidenced by all of the eulogies referenced above. The best summary of his importance to his work family was, 'He was a very important, irreplaceable member of the DSR family. I don't know if we can ever recover from his loss.' We will all miss him immensely.

“ I had the joy and the honor to work with Dwyane at Tekelec for over 10+ years. He was always a wonderful person to work with and a outstanding engineering.

My heart goes out to Dwayne's family during this sad time and I want them to know how much all his friends at Tekelec cared and respected him!!

May the peace which comes from the memories of love shared comfort you now and in the days ahead.

My deepest sympathies to you and your family. May the soul of your father rest in peace. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family.

*Respectfully,
Tim Armstrong and Family*

“ Dwayne was a Godly man and perhaps the best example of a great husband and father that can be found. Heaven gained a redeemed child, and we lost a tremendous man of God on June 14. I will miss you dearly, my friend. I thank God that He allowed me to know you and have you as a friend and brother in Christ these past 23 years.
