“ We were a pack of friends that grew up together. Julie was like my little sister she had a laugh that was infectious and a daring spirit. I'm a total loss, I had know clue life happened & we all moved away in our own directions. Julie renamed me to my dismay Davey the only person to ever call me that. I miss you Julie.

“ Julie,

It was good to be acquainted with you at the Town of Cary. You always radiated a smile, even just in passing in the hallways at Town Hall.

May you abide in the Peace of Jesus Christ and His promises always.

“ I only met Julie once, it was 4 years ago on a snowy afternoon in December. We were at Duke Hospital waiting for a radiation treatment. Because of the snow and ice, we were all cluttered into one small waiting room hoping to get home before the weather got worse. See, I tend to keep to myself but I will never forget that day because Julie reached out to me and we started talking. We realized we knew a few of the same people in transportation. Her smile and openness made me feel comfortable and I remember wishing I knew her earlier in my life. She asked me straight out... if I was scared? And I said, "Strangely, no." I am saddened today learning of her passing. Time is ticking and we need to find a cure to this disease? Julie, rest in peace.

“ Julie and I shared many stories about the "Huns" of Baltimore, and all the interesting things that go on in that great city! She had such a zest for life and lead by example, exhibiting strong conviction and optimism, always taking time to spend with friends, and co-workers, no matter how busy she was. My heart felt sympathy goes out to all the family, as she will never be forgotten, although we miss her greatly. Peace and Prayers - Nancy Jones

“ Julie, your warmth and smiles will be sorely missed. You were such a big part of our lives, not just as a neighbour but also as a fellow mother who was full of thoughtful ideas and suggestions as we navigated preschool and elementary School and then the middle school process. I so appreciated your friendship and I miss you.
