“ I remember when we tried to visit my grandfather when he was sick and Loretta told us that the neighborhood they lived in did not allow children. When we finally insisted on visiting, we were shocked to find out that there were kids all over the area. All pictures of my grandfathers family had been removed from their house and all that remained were pictures of her son Brian and his daughter. She was emotionally incestuous with Brian, all she spoke of was him, it was really weird. She married my grandfather shortly after my grandmother died and at first she was sweet but it did not take long after my grandfathers health started to deteriorate she became malicious and wicked.

“ We met Loretta through her son Brian when she moved to NC from Florida. We adopted each other as family and shared holidays and birthdays for many years. Loretta was a woman ahead of her time. She had so many talents whether it was interior design, clothing, cooking, or baking. She was an intelligent, classy, and loving woman with a big heart and devout faith in her Catholic religion. Loretta was such a blessing in our lives and we will never forget her kindness, encouragement, and wisdom. We will always miss her. May she rest in peace.

“ I met her only a couple of times at Ann and Al Brown's residence with her son Brian there, and she was a spunky little lady that was a delight to have a conversation with her. May she rest in peace and my deepest sympathy to her family and friends

“ I so enjoyed my phone conversations with Loretta. She was so full of love and had so many stories of family history. Never had a conversation that she didn't tell me all about her family and all that was going on, she loved you all so very much. We had planned on a surprise visit last spring (I wanted so much to meet her in person) but that was derailed due to covid. There is no doubt that she is watching over you all every single day. Rest in peace sweet cousin, until we finally meet.
