“Becky was my sister-in-law and friend. I have know her since I was 12 years old. I am so grateful for her thoughtful listening, balanced advice, and great capacity for laughter (slapstick, irony and wit). She was a great companion at Carolina basketball games and was a devoted sports fan of a wide range of sports. She loved plants and frequently enlightened me with knowledge from some of her courses at NC State at plant sales or on walks. Always sharing with Becky was a happy time for me. We read all the Harry Potter books at the same time - as soon as they were released. We shared many favorite movies. We had adventures in Germany, Egypt, California and North Carolina. Becky was an skilled photography and I have appreciated the pictures she has taken of my family. She took great portraits and was able to capture the glints of mischief in my daughter's and grandchildren's eyes. She also took candid pictures of her dogs, Zoe, Lucy and Maggie. Following our trips, she shared albums of gorgeous scenes that delighted our travelling companions. She invited me to a couple of her writing group shows and I was honored to see the support of these writers learning from each other and sharing their work. And I will never forget the family events! I was amazed at her excellent cooking and her elegant taste. Kimberly and Becky made a complementary kitchen team. Becky was always fun. She was characteristically brave and strong throughout her illness. She was ever respectful and trusting in her medical team. During her last hospitalization, she sent candy to the hospital staff for their care and kindness. She was extremely weak and she felt nurses, aides, and maintenance staff had gone way beyond the call of duty in waiting on her. One morning in the hospital I spilled cold water on her. I was so horrified. She set up dramatically and said, "I'll never forget that!" Becky, I'll never forget you. You are a beautiful example and I cherish the memories of our time and our lives twinned together. Thank you. You added beauty, love and happiness that I would have never had without you.

“ I just wanted to extend my sympathy to Becky's family. She was such a kind and warm person who touched my life. We took the summer writing classes at Meredith College several times, usually signing up for the same small group, sitting beside each other, and having a good time while we worked hard to become better writers. She had magic when it came to words, creating her unforgettable characters like Icie and weaving a story that drew readers in. I loved to hear her read aloud as her voice rose and fell, exactly at the powerful points. I am thankful that she allowed me to be her friend.
May God bless you through this difficult time.
